

LIVERNOIS ST. DETROIT

Fel'le will paint the Absolute Equality mural in Detroit, MI along Livernois St. Livernois Street in Detroit, Michigan has a rich history as a cultural and economic hub for the African American community. It was known as "The Avenue of Fashion" in 1920s & 30s and was home to many black-owned businesses. The street has undergone a resurgence recently and is home to many local black-owned businesses.

This rich history makes it a perfect location for a Juneteenth inspired mural project, as it will not only beautify the area, but also pay tribute to the important historical events that took place on the street and the African American community that has been an integral part of the street's history.
